Pierce's Inn Antics

Hello Readers,

I continue to spin a few plates as a speaker, educator, performer and comic storyteller. Check out @situationcoldbru. My husband, Bruce Lingelbach entertains our family and friends with his ongoing antics as the Pierce's Inn housekeeper, chef, manager of mountain ops, head of facilities, problem solver, cold plunge enthusiast, recreation specialist and keeper of joy. Before I get too drifty, I decided to document some of what goes on around here at the Inn with photos and videos. Bruce makes me laugh every dang day. If any of you get a kick out of Bruce's intentional and unintentional humor, you may enjoy @situationcoldbru.

Possible Tour of Keeping It Inn

Keeping It Inn had a great run at Briggs Opera House with two sold-out shows and an added Sunday matinee that almost sold out. The positive responses from audience members encouraged me to start plans for a New England tour starting in mid-September, 2023. I am hitting stride with my ability to immerse myself into the character of my mother, incorporating a year and a half of coaching from director, Traci Mariano and additional coaching from Richard Waterhouse. A link to the Saturday, January 21st show will be available on the Junction Arts and Media (JAM) website within the next few weeks. Geoff Hansen took more photos on the opening night at Briggs (see the right side of this newsletter).

Recent Speaking Gigs

I have taken some time off from speaking to prepare for and to perform Keeping It Inn this fall and winter. We have found a way to squeeze in presentations around my performance schedule. I gave a presentation to new and transfer students at Keene State College in January. New England School of the Arts \(NESAs\) hosted a fundraiser at Lebanon Opera House in early February. The amazing, Jenny and Carl Chambers are accepting applications from students for fall, 2023. I had the honor of doing a short presentation about the importance of the Arts and the growth that comes from having the courage to create for an audience.

Last weekend, I presented to all four forms at Salisbury School in Salisbury, CT. Last Friday, I shared my message with participants and staff at The Family Place in Wilder, VT. This winter and spring, I will present in person around NH and VT as well as travel to NJ, CO, RI and MA to present to students and parents. I continue to give online presentations to audiences of students, parents and educators all around the country.

Thanks for engaging,
Cindy
